

Case Study: eDiscovery Technology Platform Migration to Cloud

After five years and a highly effective partnership with Compliance, a national law firm, wanting to stay at the forefront of cutting technology, is moving 20 TBs of data from Relativity OnPrem to Relativity One in the cloud.

Client Challenge

Recently the client renewed with Compliance and Relativity One for three additional years. The migration to Relativity One means the client can take advanced technical requirements to solve problems in new ways as they grow and mature. The firm relies upon Compliance for implementation, training, onboarding, and hosting. The client values implementing cutting edge technology to suit their needs and Compliance can continue to bring that technology and in-depth knowledge to share with their team.

Compliance Solution

Over the course of five years, Compliance and the client built a highly collaborative relationship. They have fostered joint development of the tool to customize databases and outputs for production that can be branded for their own clients and used in the courtroom.

The firm values innovation, independence and future-forward technology, therefore they were very interested in moving to Relativity One. The client preferred several of the features of Relativity One, like a mobile app, blackout/native redaction inclusion, and ability to control costs with Cold and ECA repository cases. The client felt the technology on the Relativity Server was being left behind and appreciated the new features and technology consistently being updated on Relativity One.

Compliance initially set up a 2TB data environment for the client in 2016, which grew to 10 TB in just three years. In 2021, the client will be migrating 20 TBs of data to Relativity One with Compliance.
